

Methodology of Qur'an Interpretation In Exegetical Hadiths of Shi'ah

Mohammad Kazem Shaker¹

Received: 26/4/2008

Accepted: 5/10/2008

Abstract

There are nearly 14000 exegetical hadiths, narrated from Prophet's family, collected by some Shi'ah scholars in a number of commentaries well-known as Tafasir –e Ma'thur (traditional commentaries) in Shi'ah. In the 12th century, most of these traditions were collected in the two large collections entitled Al-Burhan fi Tafsir al-Qur'an, the work of Bahrani (d. 1107 A.H), and Nur al-Thaqalayn, the work of Huwayzi (d. 1112 A.H). These hadiths can generally be classified in three categories: 1. the hadiths explaining outward meanings of the Qur'an, 2. the hadiths expressing the inward meanings of the Qur'an, and 3. the hadiths applying the Qur'anic concepts to the certain individuals and groups of people. For example, some verses of the Qur'an have been interpreted as symbols for the Prophet, the Prophet's household and the opponents of the Prophet's family. The last type of traditions is called the hadiths of Jary (flow). The term comes from Shi'ah hadith concerning ta'wil. According to some hadiths, the Qur'an is like the sun and the moon; it flows through history as same as the sun and the moon flows in cosmos. Among 14000 exegetical hadiths of shi'ah, more than 2100 hadiths are classified as hadiths of Jary. These hadiths have been extremely criticized by some of Sunni Muslim scholars. However, some modern Quranic Shi'ah exegetes such as Muhammad Husayn Tabatabayi, the author of Al-Mizan fi Tafsir al-Qur'an hold that it was the method of Imams of Ahl al-bayt to apply a Quranic verse to all things it might be applied to. Nevertheless, our study shows that the numerous traditions in this respect have been fabricated. Many of these hadiths do not possess

1. Associate Professor, Dept. of Quranic Science & Hadith, University of Qom

an authentic chain of narrators. Moreover, most of them came to Shiah hadith books via Ghulat (exaggerators) whom our Imams refused as heretics. In fact some of them are more similar to trite phrases, rather than interpretations of the Quran, like applying "ba'uza" (mosquito)(Q.2:26) to Imam Ali! There are some sound hadiths from the Imams of Shi'ah that they have denied some applications of the verses to themselves.

Having clarified main exegetical concepts and presented two classifications of shi'ah exegetical hadiths, this paper examines these kinds of traditions and evaluates them with criticisms in both textual content and narrators through whom these hadiths have been narrated.

Keywords: Methodology of interpretation, Exegetical hadiths, the criticism of exegetical schools, Esoteric interpretation

Introduction

At the time of shiah Imams, a few of their students collected the hadiths of Ahl al-bayt concerning the interpretation of the Quran into specific collections and named each of them, "Kitab al-tafsir". Among them are such scholars as Aban ibn Taghlib, Abu Hamzah al-Thumali, Abu al-Jarud and Jabir ibn yazid al-Ju'fi. Also, at the beginning of the fourth century AH, some Shiite scholars such as Furat ibn Ibrahim al-Kufi, Muhammad al-Ayyashi and Ali ibn Ibrahim al-Qummi compiled many traditions regarding the interpretation of the Quran and named them "Kitāb al-tafsir". After the fifth century, for various reasons, Shiite scholars did not take proper care of exegetical hadiths; therefore, some of the Shiite works on commentary became untraceable and some lost their historical validity. At the end of the eleventh century, with the "akhbāri" movement, scholars such as al-Huwayzi and al-

Bahrani collected almost all exegetical hadiths within numerous Shiite books and created two large collections of commentaries (Tafsir). Therefore, today Nur al-thaqalayn including more than 13500 Hadiths, and al-Burhan including nearly 12000 Haiths, are available.

Amongst the hadiths of ahl al-bayt concerning the Quran, we find both the exoteric and esoteric interpretation of the Quran.

This paper consists of three main parts: in the first part, the author explains the most important terms regarding the Qur'an interpretation. These terms includes ta'wil, tanzil, zahir, batin, hadd and matla'. Since the terms are used in traditions, the author tries to uncover their meanings in the light of traditions themselves. In the second part, the various categories of the exegetical hadiths are presented. The author maintains that shi'ah exegetical hadiths can be classified in four categories. Finally in the third part the author examines the hadiths of jary.

It should be noted that the purpose of the paper is not to assess all exegetical traditions. The paper aims at three purposes: 1) the explanation of main exegetical concepts, 2) the presentation of main categories of exegetical hadiths, 3) the assessment of hadiths of jary in general.

1. The Semantics of "Tanzil, Tafsir and Ta'wil According to Hadiths

1. 1. The meaning of "Tanzil" in hadiths

In many traditions, such as the following, the word ta'wil is used in contrast with the word tanzil:

Imam Sadiq said: "God sent down the tanzil and ta'wil of the Quran upon the Prophet and taught them to him."¹

The question that arises here is: What was meant by tanzil and ta'wil? A close look in the traditions in which, ta'wil is used in contrast with tanzil shows that tanzil is used in different meanings as classified below:

In Islamic works, sometimes the holy Quran, is called 'tanzil' as same as it is called 'furqan', 'zikr' and 'kitab'.² Likewise, the term tanzil in some other traditions is applied to 'words of the Quran'.³

1. Muhammad ibn Ya'qub Kulayni, al-Kafi (Beirut, Dar Sa'b, 1401 A.H.), vol.1, p.23.

2. See: Nahj al-Balaghah, Sermon.26; Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-Anwar, vol.18, p.22; Nahj al-Balaghah, Sermon.150; Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-Anwar, vol.51, p.117; Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-Anwar, vol.43, p.156; Ibid., vol.32, p.429; vol.33, p.74.

3. See: Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-anwar, vol.10, p.125., vol.89, p.107, vol.42, p.128. For more information about the second use of tanzil in the traditions see, Muhammad ibn Mas'ud 'Ayyashi, Kitab al-Tafsir (Tehran, Intisharat 'Ilmiyya Islamiyya), vol.2, p.251; Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-Anwar, vol.24, pp.117-8; vol.25, p.97; vol.89, pp.40, 59.

In some following traditions, tanzil is used as the immediate, literal meaning of the words-- the meaning that immediately comes to the mind of the reader.

* Imam 'Ali regarding the explicit verses (Muhkamat) said: "the explicit verses (Muhkamat) are the verses whose ta'wil are synonymous with tanzil. For instance, the Quran says: "O ye who believe! When ye prepare for prayer, wash your faces, and your hands (and arms) to the elbows; Rub your heads (with water); and your feet to the ankles" (Q.5: 6). The ta'wil of this verse is what is understood from its tanzil (literal meaning)".⁴

This tradition indicates that the immediate, apparent meaning of the above mentioned verse is intended by God, and no other meaning should be considered as the ta'wil.

* In another tradition, Imam 'Ali said: "there are many verses of the Quran whose ta'wil are different from their tanzil, such as the meaning of 'Inzal = to send down' in these verses: "And he sent down for you eight head of cattle in pairs" (Q.39:6), "and We sent down Iron, in which is (material for) mighty war, as well as many benefits for mankind," (Q.57:25). In these verses the expression 'to send down' means 'to create', or like the word of Abraham: "I will go to my Lord! He will surely guide me!" (Q.37:99) that 'going towards God' means 'to pay due attention to the worship of God', or like "Nay, they deny the Meeting with their Lord." (Q.32:10), that the Quran describes 'reviving in the hereafter' as 'meeting God', or like "Who suppose (know) that they are to meet their Lord, and that they are to return to Him." (Q.2:46), that the word 'zann = to suppose' is used in meaning of 'certainty'. Therefore, behold that the ta'wil of these verses are distinctly different than their tanzil".¹

4. Muhamma ibn Hasan al-Hurr al-'Amili, Wasa'il al-Shi'a, vol.1, p.280. 'Ali ibn Ibrahim al-Qomi, Tafsir al-Qomi, vol.1, p.96.

According to the above traditions, ta'wil is the original intended meaning that sometimes is comprehended from the apparent meaning of Quranic words and sometimes it does not accord to the apparent meaning and grasping its intended meaning requires much more meditation.

1. 2. Meaning of ta'wil in Hadiths

In traditions, the word ta'wil is used in diverse usages, although the main meaning of ta'wil is to be found in all of them. In traditions, ta'wil is used in connection with 'speech' and 'dream'. In traditions, as will be shown, some times ta'wil is applied to 'literal meaning' of words, whereas, in some other is applied to 'hidden meaning' and in the third application is used in external exemplars (masadiq) of words. Here we shall present the various applications of ta'wil of speech.

1. 2. 1. The literal meaning

In a number of hadiths, such as the following, ta'wil is applied to the speaker's intent.

1. Muhamma Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-Anwar, vol.62, p.138; Sayyid Hashim Bahrani, al-Burhan fi tafsir al-Quran; Ibn Jum'a Huwayzi, Tafsir Nur al-thaqalayn.

* Huzayfat ibn Yaman said: on the day of *Ghadir -e- Khum*² when the Prophet announced "for whomsoever I am the mawla, 'Ali is his mawla", a man said: O apostle of God! What is the ta'wil of your statement? He answered: "I meant "For whomsoever I am the prophet, 'Ali is his commander".³

As the Arabic word "mawla" literally has two current meanings; (i) friend, (ii) leader, the man asked the Prophet to clarify his factual intent from the word "mawla". Therefore, in this tradition ta'wil was applied to "what is intended".

* It is narrated that one day Mu'awiyah in a debate with 'Abdullah ibn 'Abbas told him: Avoid from relating the qualities of 'Ali and his household! Ibn 'Abbas responded: Do you want to forbid us from reading the Quran!? He answered: No! Ibn 'Abbas said: Subsequently, do you want to prohibit us from ta'wil of the Quran?! He said: yes! Ibn 'Abbas added: Then, you let us recite the Quran, but do not let us talk about "what God intended" from the Quran.⁴ As can be seen, the term ta'wil in this tradition is correspondent to "what God intended".

In some hadiths, such as the following, ta'wil is used in 'literal meaning' of a word or a statement, whether the is the direct (indication) or the indirect meaning (implication).

2. Ghadir -e- Khom originally is the name of a place located between Mecca and Medina, where the Prophet Muhammad in his last pilgrimage appointed 'Ali as his immediate successor. This event was took place on 18th of the month Dhilqa'dah (!0 A.H.).

3. Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-Anwar, vol.37, p.194.
4 - Ibid., vol.25, p.375.

* Imam Baqir said: “When Noah’s boat was placed upon the mountain of Judi, suddenly he became afraid and said: “rahman atqin”. The ta’wil (meaning) of his word is, ‘O my Lord! Help us’”.¹

* Somebody asked Imam Baqir about the name of the day “al-Jumu’ah, Friday”, he answered: “Ta’wil of al-Jumuah is that God gathers all His creatures including humans and Jinn on this day.”²

* Imam ‘Ali said: “Ta’wil of the verse “to God We belong, and to Him is our return” (Q, 2: 156), is that: God is our master and we depart from this world”.³

As can be seen, ta’wil in the above traditions, was applied to the literal meaning of the words and sentences.

1. 2. 2. The exemplar of a word (misdaq)

In a number of traditions, such as the following, ta’wil is used in the exemplars (masadiq) of quranic words, rather than to their concepts (literal meanings):

* Once Harun al-rashid, the ‘Abbasid caliph, asked Imam Kazim: Why do you describe yourselves as ‘the children of the Prophet’, whereas you are truly the children of ‘Ali?! Imam Kazim responded: “All Muslims say that in the event of *mubahilah*⁴, none save ‘Ali, Fatima, Hasan and Husayn were with the Prophet. Therefore, in the verse of *mubahilah*⁵ the ta’wil of “abna’ana, our children” is Imam Hasan and Imam Husayn, and the ta’wil of “nisa’ana, our women” is Fatima, and the ta’wil of “anfusana, ourselves” is Imam ‘Ali.”⁶

* Imam Baqir said: “The ta’wil of ‘ahl al-bayt’ in the verse saying “And God only wishes to remove all abomination from you, ye members of the Family, and to make you pure and spotless”.(Q.33:33), are ‘Ali, Fatima, Hasan and Husayn”⁷

It is obvious that the word “abna’ana” literally means our children, but considering the context, its subjects (masadiq) are Imam Hasan and Imam Husayn, and the word “ahl al-bayt” literally means ‘the people of the house’, but it is possible that the subjects are ‘Ali, Fatima, Hasan and Husayn’.

1. 2. 3. The necessary logical implications of a statement and clear facts, they should be invited for a ‘mubahilah’. The practical form of mubahilah was so devised that both the contending parties should gather at an appointed place with themselves and their children and humbly pray that God’s curse should be laid on those who were liars.

In some traditions, such as the following, ta’wil is understood as accompanied logical implications of a statement.

5. This verse is known as “mubahila”: “If any one disputes in this matter with thee, now after (full) knowledge Hath come to thee, say: “Come! let us gather together,- our sons and your sons, our women and your women, ourselves and yourselves: Then let us earnestly pray, and invoke the curse of God on those who lie!” (Q.3:61)

6. Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-anwar, vol.93, p.241.

7. Ibid., vol35, p.211.

1. Ibid., vol.11, p.239.

2. Muhammad Baqir Majlisi, Bihar al-anwar, vol.24, p.399.

3. Muhammad ibn Ya’qub Kulayni, al-Kafi fi al-hadith (Beirut, Dar al-Ta’aruf, 1401 A.H.), vol.3, p.261.

4. Mubahilah literally means “invoking curse for those who were false in their claim. Referring the Najran Christians, God ordered that if they did not accept after so many arguments

* Fuzayl ibn Yasar said: I asked Imam Baqir about the verse “if any one saved a life, it would be as if he saved the life of the whole people.” (Q.5:32), He answered: It means “if any one saved whomsoever from burning or drowning, he has saved the whole humanity”. I asked: Does not the verse include whoever saves the other person from going astray and guide him to the right way? He said: “this is indeed its higher ta'wil”.¹ A similar hadith was related from Imam Sadiq.²

What is considered as ta'wil in the above tradition is the result of a logical argument, and that is when the verse includes the one who saves the body of a man from burning in this mortal world, certainly it also includes the one who saves the spirit of a man from burning in the fire of Hell in the immortal world. What is of particular interest to us in this hadith is that Imam Sadiq considered the logical implication of the verse as the ta'wil. Therefore, all the non-literal meanings of the Quran, which are results of the logical arguments based on some Quranic materials, can be considered (counted) as the ta'wil of the Quran.

1. 2. 4. Wisdom (hikmat)

In some traditions, ta'wil is applied to ‘wisdom’ (hikmat). ‘Wisdom’ (hikmat) in this context, means the broad idea upon which many religious teachings and principles are based. For instance, God enacted fasting, but announced in the Quran that the aim of this religious act is piety.³ Therefore, it can be said that piety is ta'wil (hikmat, wisdom) of fasting.

The following hadiths refer to this application of ta'wil:

* One day, when Imam 'Ali was passing in front of Ka'ba, he saw a man who was praying. He was pleased with his prayer and said: Do you know what the ta'wil of your prayer is? The man answered: is there anymore ta'wil for prayer except devoutness? Imam 'Ali answered: Behold, O' man! God has given the Prophet nothing except that it possesses ta'wil and tanzil, and both of them are based on devoutness. Therefore, whosoever does not know the ta'wil of his prayer; it would be imperfect and worthless”.⁴

Ta'wil in this hadith applied to the wisdoms behind the religious precepts that in fact they are the causes for enactment of those precepts.

* The Shiite and Sunni traditions have related that the Prophet made a prayer for Ibn

1. Muhammad ibn Ya'qub al-Kulayni, al-Kafi fi al-usul (Beirut, Dar Sa'ib, 1401 A.H.), vol.2, p.210; 'Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir, vol.1, p.312; Ibn Jum'ah Huwayzi, Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1, p.617. It should be noted that in another hadith was related that “the higher ta'wil of the verse is that you invite him to the right way and he responds positively.” 'Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir, vol.1, p.312; Ibn Jum'ah Huwayzi, Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1 p.617. Likewise, 'Ali ibn Ibrahim al-Qummi related that the verse includes the one who saves a person from poverty. 'Ali ibn Ibrahim al-Qummi, Tafsir al-Qummi, vol.1 p.167.
2. 'Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir, vol.1, p.312; Ibn Jum'ah Huwayzi, Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1, p.617; Mirza Husayn Nuri, Mustadrak al-Wasa'il, (Qom, Mu'assasat -u- Ali Bayt, 1407), vol.12, p.238.

3. See, Q.2:183.

4. Ibn Jum'ah al-Huwayzi, Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1, p.314. (the main source: 'Ilal al-shara'f)

'Abbas, "O God, make him learned in the religion and teach him ta'wil".¹

Alternatively, according to another narration, the Prophet said: "O God, make him learned in the religion and teach him wisdom (hikmah)".²

Thus, probably ta'wil in this occurrence, has no meaning except 'wisdom' (hikmat). On this basis, the prophet would have wished that Ibn 'Abbas attained the position that he could infer the religious precepts from the revelation and was able to comprehend their reasons and causes. This point of view can be supported by a Hadith from Ibn 'Abbas that he interpreted 'hikmat' to "proper understanding of the Quran".

1.2. 5. The hidden meaning

In some hadiths, such as the following, ta'wil is applied to the hidden meaning.* Abu 'ubaydah said: Once I asked Imam Baqir about the verses, "A. L. M. The Roman The Romans has been defeated-on a land close by... (Q.30:1-3)", Imam Baqir said: "These verses possess a ta'wil that none save God and those who are versed in knowledge know".³ It is obvious that the verses are clear; therefore, Imam's intent refers to the hidden meaning of the verses.

1. See, Ibn Kathir, Tafsir al-Quran al-'azim; Qurtubi, al-Jami' li ahkam al-Quran; Ibn Hayyan, al-Bahr al-muhit.

2. See, Muhammad ibn 'Isa Tirmizi, Sunan al-Tirmizi, (Istanbul, Dar al-Da'wah, 1407), Kitab al-manaqib, No.3823-4; Fayz Kashani, al-Mahajjat al-bayza' (Qom, Intisharat -e- Islami), vol.2, p.253.

3. Ibn Jum'ah Huwayzi, Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1, p.314.

The Sunni sources have narrated that Ibn 'Abbas said:

"Verily the Quran possesses branches and sciences, outward meanings and inward meanings; so its outward meaning is tanzil, and its inward meaning is ta'wil".⁴

1. 2. 6. Fulfilment of a speech

In some traditions, ta'wil is applied to the fulfilment of the Quranic verses.

* In a tradition related to the Prophet that refers to the verse "He hath power to send calamities on you" (Q.6:65), he said: Verily it will be fulfilled, but its ta'wil has not yet come".⁵

* 'Ayishah, the Prophet's wife, referring to his attitude in prayer says: He frequently repeated in his genuflexion and prostration this sentence: "Glory be to Thee, O God, O our Lord, and Thine is the praise! O God, Forgive me! 'Ayishah added: He was fulfilling the Quranic message (yata'awwal al-Quran)".⁶

It is obvious that 'Ayisha's purpose behind the above comment is to show that the Prophet

4. Jalal al-din Suyuti, al-Durr al-manthur, vol.2, p.10 (the main source: tafsir -e- Ibn abi Hatam); al-Itqan, chapter no.77; Sayyid Mahmud Alusi, Ruh al-ma'ani fi tafsir al-Quran, vol.1, p.28.

5. Muhammad ibn 'Isa Tirmizi, al-Jami' al-Sahih; Sunan e-Tirmizi (Beirut, Dar al-kutub al-'ilmiyyah, 1407 A.H.)vol.5, p.244, No.3066.

6. Muhammad ibn Isma'il Bukhari, Sahih e-Bukhari (Beirut, Dar Ihya' al-turath al-'arabi), vol.6, p.200; Muslim ibn Hajjaj Nayshaburi, Sahih e-Muslim (Beirut, Dar Ihya' al-turath al-'arabi), vol.1, p.350, kitab al-salat, No.217.

wanted to fulfil the command of God in the Chapter Nasr.¹

* Abu Basir related concerning this verse "It is He Who hath sent His Apostle with guidance and the Religion of Truth, to proclaim it over all religion, even though the pagans may detest (it)." (Q.9:33), Imam Sadiq said: "By God, it has not yet come its ta'wil and it will not come its ta'wil until Qa'im (the hidden Imam) comes".²

It is clear that ta'wil in the above hadiths means fulfilment of the above mentioned verses.

It should be remembered that ta'wil, more or less, used in traditions in connection with dream, which means interpretation or fulfilment of a dream.³

1. 3. Meaning of "tafsir" in Hadiths

Two questions which need to be responded here (i) Are the terms ta'wil and tafsir used interchangeably in traditions? (ii) Has the term ta'wil in the chapter of Al 'Imran been used to mean tafsir or not?

A brief look at the traditions shows that both questions might be answered positively.

The following traditions indicate that the term ta'wil is used to mean tafsir.

* As previously mentioned, Imam 'Ali in responding to the one who had called the Quran of containing the contradictory materials, said: "Avoid from interpreting (tafsir) the Quran based on your personal opinion; for although the tanzil of the Quran is similar to human made word, its ta'wil will sometimes be incomparable with humans".⁴

Nevertheless, other following, imply that the tafsir and ta'wil are two distinct things.

* Imam 'Ali said: "No verse was revealed upon the messenger of God but he taught me its tafsir and its ta'wil, its nasikh and mansukh, its muhkam and mutashbih".⁵

The following traditions indicate that the term ta'wil in the chapter Al 'Imran used in meaning of tafsir.⁶

* Narrated by messenger of God in the sermon of Ghadir: "O' people! Keep thinking on the Quran, understand its verses, look at its explicit verses (muhkamat), do not follow its ambiguous verses (mutashabihat), by God, none save 'Ali is able to tell you its tafsir."⁷

* Likewise, referring to the seventh verse of Al 'Imran, 'Ali said:

Leave to God that knowledge which Satan has prompted you to seek and which neither the

1. "Celebrate the praises of thy Lord, and pray for His Forgiveness."(Q.110:3)

2. 'Abd 'Ali ibn Jum'a al-Huwayzi, Tafsir -e- Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.2, p.211. (the main source: Kamal al-din wa Tamam al-ni'ma from Shaykh -e- Saduq).

3. See, Muhammad ibn Isma'il Bukhari, Sahih Bukhari, vol.9, pp.110-115

4. Ibid., vol.89, p.107.

5. Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1, p.314.

6. in next chapter we shall explain that some eminent scholars of Sunni and Shi'a, such as Ibn Taymiyyah and Tabataba'i, maintain that the term ta'wil in the Chapter Al 'Imran does not refer to tafsir.

7. Nur al-thaqalayn, vol.1, p.314. (Main source: al-'Ihtijaj, Tabarsi)

Quran enjoins you to seek nor is there any trace of it in the actions or sayings of the Prophet and other leaders (A`immah) of guidance. This is the extreme limit of God's claim upon you. Know that firm in knowledge are those who refrain from opening the curtains that lie against the unknown, and their acknowledgement of ignorance about the details of the hidden unknown prevents them from further probe. God praises them for their admission that they are unable to get knowledge not allowed to them. They do not go deep into the discussion of what is not enjoined upon them about knowing Him and they call it firmness.¹

As can be seen, Imam 'Ali uses the word tafsir instead of the word ta'wil when he is talking about the seventh verse of Al 'Imran that whose subject is ta'wil.

* Ibn 'Abbas said: "The tafsir of the Quran is divided into four divisions: (i) that which all can understand. (ii) that which the Arab can understand. (iii) that which only the learned men can understand. (iv) that which no one knows except God".²

It is clear that the forth type of tafsir in this hadith refers to the seventh verse of Al 'Imran.

1. Nahj al-balaghah, Sermon.90; Muhammad ibn Mas'ud 'Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir, vol.1, p.162; Fayz Kashani, Tafsir al-safi, vol.1, p.294 (narrated from al-Tawhid of Shaykh Saduq)

2. Ibn Kathir, Tafsir al-Quran al-'azim.

2. The Semantics of 'Zahir' and 'Batin' in Hadiths

A number of Hadiths from the Prophet's family indicate that there are various levels of meanings in the Holy Quran.

* "In truth, the Qur'an possesses an inner and outer".³

* "In truth, the Qur'an possesses an inner and outer, and its inner possesses another inner up to seven inners".⁴

* No verse is in the Quran but it possesses outer and inner, and no letter (harf) is in the Quran but it possesses the limited meaning (hadd) and the highest meaning (matla').⁵

* No verse is in the Quran but it possesses four meanings: outer (zahir), inner (batin), limited (hadd) and highest (matla').⁶

Likewise, there are other traditions from the Prophet and his offsprings which can be summarized in the following statements.

1-The Quran possesses outer (zahir), inner (batin), limited (hadd) and highest meanings.

2-Each verse (ayah) of the Quran possesses the outer, inner, limited and highest meanings.

3. Kolayni, Ibid., vol.4, p.549; al- Saduq, 'ilal al-sharaye', (Dar 'ihya al-turath al-'arabi, Beirut), p.606. The hadith related from Imam Sadiq.

4. Sayyed haydar 'amoli, Jami-u al-asrar, (Shirkat intisharat 'ilmi farhangi, Tehran,1989), p.530. The hadith related from the Prophet.

5. al-'Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir, ('intesharat 'ilmiya islamiya, Tehran),vol.1, p.11); Saffar, Ibid., p.216; Majlisi, Bihar al-anwar, (al-Wafaa, Beirut, 1983), vol.33, p.155.

6. Fayz Kashani, Tafsir al-Safi, (Dar al-Mortiza, Mashhad), vol.1, p.28. The hadith narrated from 3-Each letter (harf) of the Quran possesses the outer, inner, limited and highest meanings.

The above sentences can be explained through this plan. (Note: A = ayah; H = harf; Q = Quran)

Note: A = 'Ayah, H = Harf, Q = Quran

We can clearly understand what is intended by the terms “Qur’an” and “verse”, but other terms such as “zahir”, “batin”, “hadd”, “matla’” and “harf” need clarification. We shall attempt to present their intended meaning through the traditions.

2. 1. The meaning of “harf = letter”,

It is likely to be: 1) a letter of the alphabet, 2) a type of expression.

Although a number of traditions indicate the first meaning,¹ the second seems more

1. ‘Abdullah ibn Sinan who has said the following: "I asked abu ‘Abdullah (a.s.) about the interpretation of the verse of the holy Quran, ‘In the Name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful.’ The Imam replied, "The first letter B in the Arabic version signifies Baha ‘Ullah and means beauty of Allah. The second letter S’ signifies Sana ‘Ullah and means radiance of Allah. The third letter M signifies Majdullah and means the Grandeur of Allah or reasonable. The following traditions verify that the meaning of the word “harf, letter” in the ahadith of “zahir & batin” is a type of expression, not a letter of the alphabet.

* The Prophet said: The Quran descends by seven letters (sab’at-e ahruf); command, forbidding, persuasion [towards heaven], frightening [from hell], argument, story and proverb.²

* Imam Ali said: Verily, God has sent down the Quran in seven styles, each style per se is complete; command, forbidding, persuasion [towards heaven], frightening [from hell], argument, story and proverb.³

As can be seen, both traditions concern the same subject matter, but in the first the word “sab’at ahrof, seven letters” and in the second the word “sab’a aqsam, seven types” are used. This replacement indicates that the word “harf, letter” used in some traditions, has the meaning of “a type of expression”.

Through this interpretation of the word “harf”, we can explain the intended meaning of the statement “each harf of the Quran possesses outer, inner, limited and higher meaning” to be that on reading the Quran one may find it with diverse features; sometimes it appears to be a story book, sometimes it seems according to some other narrators, Mujdullah means Kingdom of Allah. Allah means; Lord of all things. And al-Rahman means the Beneficent to all of His creatures in general. Al-Rahim means the Most Merciful to believers in particular."

2. Fayz Kashani, Ibid., vol.1, p.52.

3. Ibid.

to be a book of ethics, sometimes it sounds like a law book, etc. It should be understood that each feature of the Quran possesses a deep meaning in addition to the outward meaning. In other words, the theory of “zahir & batin” applies not only to certain features of the Quran such as proverbs for example, but also includes all features, even Quranic law. This theory contrasts to the theory whereby Islamic law is explained by literal language and we should therefore, understand it only by literalistic interpretation.

2. 2. The meaning “zahir & batin”

In some traditions, the structural form of Quranic passages is intended by the word “zahir”, not the outward meaning of it. In these traditions, “batin” means “meaning”, including all levels of meanings from a surface (external) meaning to a deep one. In fact, these traditions note that both the structure and the meaning of the Quran are remarkable. The rhythmic letters, words and statements in the Quran also possess deep meanings. The following traditions imply the application of “zahir & batin”.

* Imam Ali said: Certainly the outside of the Qur'an is wonderful and its inside is deep (in meaning). Its wonders will never cease, its amazements will never pass away.¹

1. Nahj al-blagha, Sermon No.18.

* The outside of the Quran is reciting and its inside is understanding.²

* The outside of the Quran is reciting and its inside is “ta'wil, hermeneutics”³

Clearly, it is the words of the Quran that are recited, not the meaning of them! Therefore, the term “zahir” in this group of traditions refers only to the words of the Quran and their extraordinary structure.

There are traditions which interpret “zahir” literally and “batin” at the wider context including all levels of non-literal meanings.

* Imam Baqir said: The outside of the Quran is the meaning that includes only the persons about whom the verses of the Quran were sent down, and its inside is the meaning that includes other people—those who are similar to the first group throughout history.⁴

* The Prophet said: The outside of the Quran is God's law and its inside is His knowledge.⁵

* Imam Sadiq said: The outside of the Quran is “tanzil, revelation”, and its inside is “ta'wil, hermeneutics”.⁶

From the above traditions, it can be inferred that the Quran has the meanings other than the literal ones.

2. Fayz Kashani, Ibid., vol.1, p.29.

3. 'Alusi, Ruh al-ma'ani, (Dar 'ihya al-turath al-'arabi, Beirut, 1980), vol.1, p.7.

4. Fayz Kashani, Ibid., vol.1, p.27.

5. Majlisi, Ibid., vol.74, p.136.

6. Saffar, Ibid., p.216.

2. 3. The meaning of “hadd” and “matla”

On one hand, it seems, the terms “hadd & matla” have the same meaning as that of “zahir & batin” but these are expressed differently. On the other hand, some traditions assert that there are four levels of meaning for the Quran; “zahir”, batin”, “hadd” an “matla”.

Thus literally, it could be said that “hadd” is the limited meaning that can be understood literally, grammatically and historically regarding the context in which a text occurs, and “matla” is the broadest term that supposedly have been intended by God with His word. “Hadd”, literally means “limit”, and therefore, a limited meaning is the intended meaning, but it is limited by several things; depending on who uses it, the context in which it is used, whom was indicated by the word, and the time, period and the place spoken of.

The term “matl” literally means ‘the place from which the sun rises’, and in this case it means the ultimate meaning that was intended by God. For the position from which the meanings of the Quran have originated is the position of God’s will and knowledge. Moreover, the juxtaposition of “hadd” and “matla” implies that the “matla” is the unlimited meaning.

This could be illustrated by the following example. Suppose a teacher is to advise his student; be careful never to throw your wastepaper onto the floor of the classroom! The literal meaning of this statement is very clear and the primary school children easily understand it, but in the teachers’ mind, this advice originates from a much higher and broader idea, i. e, cleanliness is a value. If the student understands the “matla” of the statement, they realise that the statement can be taken metaphorically and includes many cases other than its literal meaning. Therefore, they realise that they should not make the environment dirty, whether classroom, or a street, whether they sully the environment with wastepaper or other things.

We can conclude that “hadd” is the limit of “zahir, outer meaning (literal)”, and “matla” is the highest (ultimate) degree of “batin, inner meaning (non-literal)”. The following relationship between all of the conceptions.

Since each man has a different capacity of understanding and since the expounding of subtle knowledge is not without danger of misinterpretation, the Qur'an directs its teachings primarily at the level of the common man. In this manner, the subtlest of meanings can be explained and multiple meanings and ideas are expressed, to the ordinary person, by co-relating them to concrete sensory meanings. The Qur'an reveals itself in a way so that each person benefits according to his own capacity. God emphasizes this idea:

Truly We have appointed it a lecture in Arabic so that you may perhaps understand and indeed in the source of the Book, which We possess, it is sublime, decisive. (Q.43: 3-4)

God describes the different capacities of man's comprehension in the following metaphor.

He sends down water from the sky, so that valleys flow according to their measure. (Q.13: 17)

And the Prophet, in a famous tradition says: "We prophets, talk to the people, according to the capacity of their intellects."¹

We can conclude that the meaning of the Qur'an has various grades. They are, however, placed vertically one behind the other. They are not ranked side by side.

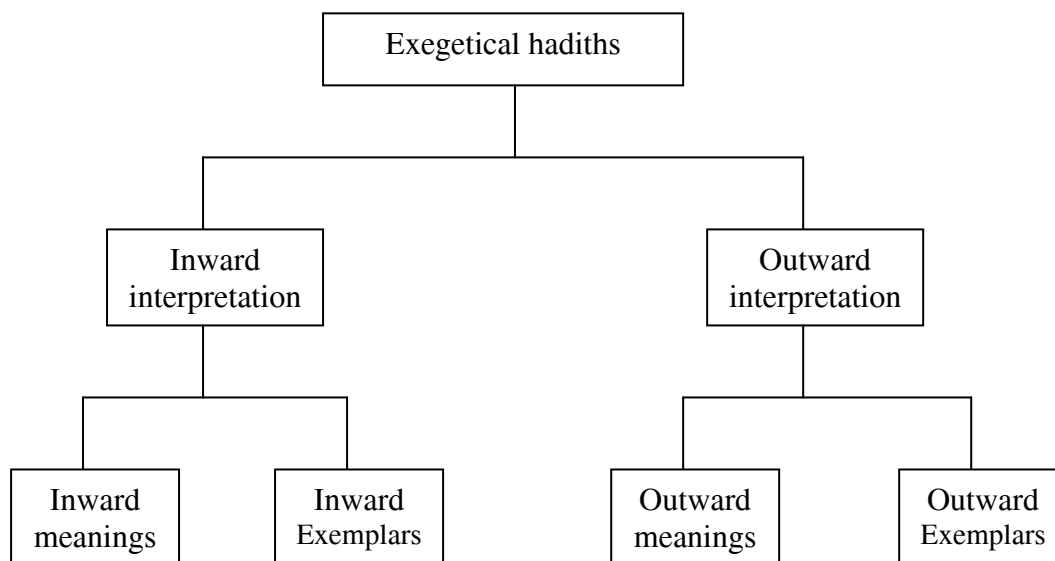

3. The Exegetical Hadiths and thier Various Categories

As mentioned earlier, there are nearly 14000 exegetical Hadiths in interpretive collections of Shiah. These include what have been narrated from the Prophet, shi'ah Imams and some companions of the Prophet as will be shown in their statistical account in the following list.

- 1- Imam Sadiq, the sixth Imam; 47%
- 2- The Prophet; 13/5 %
- 3- Imam Baqir, the fifth Imam; 13 %
- 4- Imam 'Al,i, the first Imam; 7/4 %
- 5- Imam Rida, the eighth Imam; 3/2 %
- 6- Imam Kazim, the seventh Imam; 2/4 %
- 7- Imam Husayn, the third Imam; 1/1 %
- 8- Imam Sajjad, the forth Imam; 1 %
- 9- Ibn 'Abbas; 1 %
- 10- The other Imams, companions and the followers; 5/9 %
- 11- Unknown persons; 4/5 %

Although the aim of all exegetical Hadiths is the explanation of what God has intended, they cannot all be put in the same category. A closer look at the Hadiths shows that we can divide the exegetical Hadiths into four categories:

1. See Tabatabai, the Quran in Islam, (Dar al-kutub al-Islamiyya, Tehran, 1971) pp.22-24.

The above diagram can also be seen below:

Now, according to the first diagram, we explain each kind of Hadiths, concerning the Quran interpretation.

3. 1. Outward interpretation

The traditions of the outward interpretation are those which explain some of the ambiguities of Quranic passages or introduce exemplars which included in the apparent meaning of Quranic words. Therefore, these traditions can be divided into two groups.

3. 1. 1. Traditions explaining outward meanings

Before explaining these traditions, we should clarify our consideration of the word "ma'na or meaning". Sometimes, a proper understanding of a Quranic passage depends on resolving some ambiguities in the passage concerning the true, literal meaning of the words or grammatical structure. Many traditions help us solve such problems. The following is an example of this kind of exegetical hadiths:

Referring the burglary and its punishment, the Quran says: "As to the thief, male or female, cut off his or her hands: a punishment by way of example, from Allah, for their crime: and Allah is exalted in power." (Q, 5: 38)

There are some ambiguities concerning the intended meaning of some words in this verse that can be summarized in two questions: (1) Does the word "thief" includes any one who steals something from someone in anyway? (2) What is the intended meaning of "hand" in this verse? Is that the whole hand or a part of it? In the case of the first question, some restrictions have been indicated for punishment of burglary in the received traditions of Ahl al-bayt. For instance, some Islamic jurisprudent, by using traditions, have declared eight conditions for the proof of punishment of burglary such as, maturity, mind, jurisdiction, unnecessary,¹ In the case of second question, it has brought in the Ahl al-bayt commentary that the consideration of "Yad = hand" is four fingers in the burglary verse. We can say that, in conforming indication, "Yad = hand" is applied to a part of body that starts from the tip of the fingers and ends in the palm of the hand. But, in conforming indication, it is also applied to its parts. For example, someone who has only injured his finger, says: My hand has been injured! thus, all parts of hand can be the purport of "Yad", whether conforming context or implication context. Now, when we doubt which one is the purport of "Yad" in this verse, the traditions interpret it to four fingers of hand. Therefore, such traditions explain the apparent intended meaning of the Quran.

3. 1. 2. Traditions explaining outward exemplars

There are many Hadiths, which illustrate the exemplars of apparent meaning of Quranic

1. Imam Khumayni, Tahrir al-Wasilah, Vol. 2, p. 612.

words, rather than their literal meanings. For instance, the literal meaning of the word "ahl al-bayt" in the 33th verse of the chapter Al-Ahzab is 'the people of house', therefore, there is no problem in this respect, but the question that arises is: Who are meant by the word in this verse? Does the word include the wives of the Prophet or not? Some Shiite traditions introduce 'Ali, Fatimah, Hasan and Husayn as the intended persons by the word ahl al-bayt in the Quran.

3. 2. Inward interpretation

Some exegetical Hadiths present a meaning or exemplar for a Quranic passage which cannot be understood as the literal meaning or normal ('urfī) exemplars of the words in the Arabic language. In fact, the inward meaning is the one that can be named as "developed meaning" deduced from "apparent interpretation".

Allameh Tabataba'i brings the following Quranic sample for the inner meaning of the Quran. This example indicates how we can deduce the inward interpretation from the apparent meaning of the Quran:

God says, "And serve God and ascribe nothing as a partner to Him" (Q.4: 36). The verse prohibits pre-Islamic Arabs from their worship of idols, just as another verse asserts: "shun the filth of idols, and shun lying speech" (Q.22: 30). On reflection, it becomes clear that an idol may exist in any form; therefore, idol-worship is forbidden because it involves submission to an entity other than God. At another place, the Quran considers Satan as an idol when He says: "Did I not charge you, O you sons of Adam, that you do not worship Satan" (Q.36: 60). It also becomes clear that another form of idol-worshipping is submission to one's desires or to the will of others, over and above the will of God. In this respect, the Quran says: "Have you then considered him who makes his desire his God" (Q.45: 23). Thus, it becomes clear that one should turn to none other for help than God Himself and not forget Him in any circumstances, since to do otherwise would be to direct one's attention away from God. To submit to others, is to belittle Him and this is the very essence of idol-worshipping. Thus, regarding those who refused to worship Him, the Quran says: "Already We have urged into hell many of the jinn and humankind, ...these are the neglectful." (Q.7: 179). The phrase, "ascribe nothing to Him", clearly forbids worships of idols; that is to say, man may not, without God's permission, submit himself to others including his own desires, since any such submission would render him neglectful of God.

In this way, the simple, apparent text of the verse unfolds multiple meanings and exemplifies a feature to be found throughout the Quran.¹

3. 2. 1. Traditions explaining inward meanings

Amongst the exegetical Hadiths, some reveal inner meanings of Quranic words; the meanings that are not limited to the context in which the Quranic passage occurs. For instance, the Quran says: “It is no virtue if ye enter your houses from the back: It is virtue if ye fear God. Enter houses through the proper doors: And fear God: That ye may prosper”. (Q.2: 189) the cause of revelation of this verse reveals the exoteric meaning of the verse. According to the traditions, it was a custom of the Time of Ignorance that if a man, who would have gone out of the house for Hajj putting on the Ehram, would feel the necessity of going back to his house he did not re-enter through the door of the house but climbed on the roof and then went down, or broke into the house from its backside; and they thought this absurd action as an act of virtue. God declared it wrong and ordered to enter the house through its door.¹ Nevertheless, referring to the meaning of the verse, Imam Baqir said: “It means that every task should be done through reasonable way.”² It can be seen that Imam Baqir has not expressed the apparent meaning of the verse that previously was pointed out to, but he revealed the inward meaning of the verse which the apparent meaning also has originated from it.

1. Muhammad Husayn Tabataba'i, The Quran in Islam (Tehran, Dar al-kutub al-Islamiyyah, 1350 A.H.), pp.20-22.

3. 2. 2. Traditions explaining inward exemplars

Some exegetical traditions refer to the exemplars, which the inward meaning of a

Quranic passage includes. The distinctive character of such an exemplar is that it is not the conventional (‘urfi) exemplar of Quranic words, namely the apparent meaning of the words do not include it. For instance, referring to the previous verse, “Enter houses through the proper doors” (Q.2:189), Imam Sadiq said: “Imams of the Prophet’s family are the door of divine guidance which everybody should be directed towards”.³

When we consider the inward meaning of the verse that was expressed by Imam Baqir, i.e. “every task should be done through a reasonable way”, we would realize that an Imam of the Prophet’s family is the reasonable way for obtaining guidance in religious affairs.

4. Another classification of exegetical Hadiths

Some commentators believe that only those kinds of traditions which explain meaning of Quranic verses are called the exegetical ones. Muhammad Husayn Tabatabayi, the author of Almizan, has stipulated to this point in many cases of his commentary on the Quran. He introduced a new classification of Ahl al-bayt Hadiths concerning the explanation of the Quran. He repeatedly used some sentences, such as, “the Hadith is of Jary, not tafsir”, “this Hadith is of batin, not tafsir”, “this Hadith is of Jary or Batin, not tafsir”. These phrases imply that according to Tabatabayi, all Hadiths

1. See, Shabbir Ahmad Usmani, Tafseer –E- Usmani, English translated by Mohammad Ashfaq Ahmad (New Delhi, A Centre of Islamic Books, 1992), vol.1, p.97.

2. Muhammad ibn Mas’ud ‘Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir.

3. See, ‘Ayyashi, Kitab al-tafsir, vol.1, p.85.

regarding the explanation of the Quran can be divided into three categories: interpretive Hadiths (tafsir), exemplary Hadiths (Jary) and esoteric Hadiths (batin).

Now, we explain and exemplify these categories.

4. 1. Hadiths explaining intended meaning

In Tabatabayi perspective, interpretive hadiths are traditions that explain the whole purpose of God and do not explain only some exemplars and contingent adaptable cases of Quranic verses. For example, sometimes a Quranic verse is used in allegorical sense and a hadith clarify its real intended meaning. This kind of Hadith is called interpretive. It should be mentioned that this kind of Hadiths are much more than two other kinds among Ahl al-bayt hadiths.

4. 2. Hadiths explaining some applications

Traditions which do not indicate the whole purpose of Quranic verses, instead, by them, the verses are adapted to some applications and adaptable cases out of circumstances of their revelation (asbab -e nuzul), are called "Hadiths of Jary or Tatbiq". As for these traditions, Tabatabaii holds that it is the method of the imams of Ahl al-bayt that they apply a Qur'anic verse to all things it might be applied to. And this method was correct and reasonable, because the Qur'an was revealed as "guidance to the worlds"; it guides mankind to correct belief, correct ethics and correct action. The matter of belief that it has explained is eternal truth; it is not limited to a certain time or certain place. The virtue or vice and the rules laid down for them are not confined to one person or one period - they are general and applicable to all relevant persons and times. The traditions explaining the background of revelation of a certain verse - when, why and about whom or what was it revealed - do not affect its general idea. The rule is not restricted to that particular person or event; otherwise, it would cease to be valid in other similar conditions, and would die with the death of that person. Qur'anic declaration is general; if it praises some persons, or condemns others, it is because of the presence of good or evil characteristics in them. And wherever those good or evil characteristics are found, even in later generations, the verse will in all truth be applied to them. The Qur'an itself proves it, as Allāh says: With it (i.e., the Qur'an) Allāh guides him who follows His pleasure into the ways of safety . . . (Q.5: 16).¹

The two following Hadiths are of this kind, concerning tafsir:

Imam Sadiq, the sixth Imam of Shiah referring to the verse " Those to whom We have sent the Book study it as it should be studied: They are the ones that believe therein" (Q,

1. Tabatabai, al-Mizan fi tafsir al-Quran, (al-a'lami, Beirut, 1973), vol.1, p.42.

2:121) says: "We are those who have been described in this verse." Regarding the Hadith, Tabatabayi says: the Hadith is based on applying the verse to an all-qualified exemplar.¹ In some other Hadiths, the verse " Then he that will be given his Record in his right hand will say: "Ah here! Read ye my Record! " (Q, 69:19), was applied to Imam Ali and his adherents. Referring to these Hadiths, Tabatabayi says: They are explaining some exemplars of the verse, rather than the intended meaning (tafsir) of the verse.²

4. 3. Hadiths explaining esoteric meaning

Traditions in which there is a meaning or exemplar that are not included in the superficial and general concept of the word concerned, are called "interior traditions". The difference between "Hadiths explaining some applications" and "Hadiths explaining esoteric meaning" is that the first only includes application of word as their superficial and general meaning. But, in some cases, there are words in traditions that Quranic words do not have such a clear indication to them. The following examples are about this:

According to Al-Durr Al-mansur, Ibn –e Abbas referring to the verse "Out of them come Pearls and Coral" (Q, 55: 22) said:

1. Ibid, Vol. 1, p. 362.

2. Ibid, Vol. 20, P. ?

Pearls and Coral are Ali and Fatemeh.³ In some other traditions, they are applied to Imam Hasan and Imam Hosayn.⁴ Regarding these traditions, Tabatabayi says: this is of interior.⁵

5. Hadiths of "Flow" (Jary)

Nearly 2500 exegetical traditions, in which the various verses of the Qur'an have been applied to the Prophet and Imams of his family or to their opponents scattered in Shi'i books. Some contemporary commentators such as 'Allama Syyed Mohammad Hosein Tabatabai have called these traditions as "traditions of "flow, jary", because according to some other traditions, " ta'wil" of the Quran is similar to the sun and the moon which flows in history".⁶

Indeed, these hadiths explain that ahl al-bayt and their opponents are exemplars for a large number of Quranic verses, whether they are the outward, or the inward or the exclusive exemplars.

5. 1. The quantity of the traditions of 'jary'

About one-sixth of the Shiite exegetical traditions are the traditions of 'Jary, flow'. A comprehensive survey on sources of Shiite traditions shows that the number of these traditions are 2130. The following list shows

3. Jalal al-din Al-Suyuti, Al-Durr Al-Mansur Fi al-Tafsir Al-Ma'sur, Beirut, Dar al-fikr, 1993. Vol. 7, p. 697.

4. Ibid., Vol. 7, P. 697.

5. Tabatabayi, Al-Mizan Fi Tafsir al-Quran, Vol. 19, p. 103.

6. Majlisi, Ibid. , vol.23, p.79.

the individuals to whom these traditions are attributed.

- 1- Imam Sadiq; 820
- 2- Imam Baqir; 713
- 3- The Prophet; 190
- 4- Imam 'Ali; 136
- 5- Imam Reza; 92
- 6- Imam Kazim; 69
- 7- Imam Sajjad; 40
- 8- Imam Hasan 'Askari; 34
- 9- Imam Hasan Mujtaba; 21
- 10- Imam Husayn; 6
- 11- Imam Jawad; 4
- 12- Imam Mahdi; 3
- 13- Imam Hadi; 2

5. 2. Samples of traditions of Jary

5. 2. 1. Interpreting the verses as a symbol for the Prophet

Some words or verses of the Quran such as the following have been applied to the Prophet.

“al-sama” (Q.85: 1)¹, “al-mashriqayn” (Q.55:17)², “aynayn” (Q.90: 8)³ and “al-najm al-thaqib” (Q.86: 3)⁴.

5. 2. 2. Interpreting the verses as a symbol for 'Ali

The following are examples of applying the verses to Imam Ali.

-
1. al-Bahrani, al-Burhan fi tafsir al-Quran, (Isma'ilyan, Qom), vol.4.
 2. Ibid., vol.4, p.265.
 3. Ibid., p.17.
 4. 'Ali ibn Ibrahim al-Qommi, Tafsir al-qommi, vol.2.

“al-sirat” (Q.1: 6)⁵“al-sama” (Q.86: 1)⁶, “al-naba' al-'azim” (Q.78: 2)⁷, “ba'uza” (Q.2: 26)⁸ and “al-insan” (Q.99:3)⁹.

5. 2. 3. Interpreting the verses as a symbol for "Fatima"

Some verses of the Quran such as the following have been interpreted as a symbol for “Fatima”, the Prophet’s daughter.

“al-ruh” (Q.97: 4)¹⁰ and “din al-qayyema” (Q.98: 5)¹¹,

5. 2. 4. Interpreting the Quran as a symbol for imams of Ahl al-bayt

Many Quranic words and concepts have been applied to the Imams of the Prophet’s family. The following are some examples:

“al-abrar” (Q.82: 13)¹², “ma” (Q.67: 30)¹³, “ithna 'ashara shahran” (Q.9: 36)¹⁴, “al-nur” (Q.64: 8)¹⁵ and “layalin 'ashr” (Q.69: 2)¹⁶. Likewise, some Quranic words have been interpreted as a symbol for a particular Imam, such as Imam Hasan and Imam Hossayn.¹⁷

5. al-Bahrani, Ibid., vol.1, p.47.

6. Ibid.

7. Kolayni, Ibid., vol.3, p.207, 418.

8. al-Qommi, Ibid., vol.1.

9. al-Bahrani, Ibid., vol.4, p.493-494.

10. Ibid., vol.4.

11. Ibid., vol.4, p.498.

12. Ibid., vol.4, p.436.

13. Ibid., vol.4, p.436.

14. Majlisi, Ibid., vol.24, p.240.

15. al-Bahrani, Ibid., vol.4, p.341-2.

16. Ibid., vol.4, p.457.

17. For examples, “al-maghribayn” (Q.55: 17), “shafatayn” (Q.90: 9), “tin” and “zaytun” (Q.95: 1) and “al-ghayb” (Q.2: 3) See al-Bahrani, Ibid., vol.4, p.265, 17; Ibid., vol.1.

5. 2. 5. Interpreting the verses as a symbol for opponents of the Prophet's family

Some Quranic words and concepts have been applied to opponents of the imams of the Prophet's descendent. The following are the examples:

“al-fujjar” (Q.84: 14)¹, “al-insan” (Q.100: 6)² and (Q.95: 4)³

5. 2. 6. A critical look at the humanistic application method

It would be possible that on the basis of principle of “flow”, many exegetical traditions were issued by the Prophet or the Imams of the Shi'a, but absolutely, numerous traditions in this respect have been fabricated, with the following reasons:

1) Many of these traditions do not possess an authentic chain of narrators. A survey has showed that nearly half of these traditions are without an authentic chain.

2) Some of them are more similar to trite phrases, rather than interpretation of the holy Quran! like applying “insan” (Q.99: 3) and “ba'uza” (Q.2: 26) to Imam Ali.

3) There are some traditions from the Imams of the Shi'a that have denied some applications of the verses to themselves.⁴

1. Ibid. ,vol.4, p.436.

2. Ibid. ,vol.4, p.498.

3. Ibid. , p.478.

4. See Ibid. , vol.1, p.23; Majlisi, Ibid. , vol.25, p.315.

Conclusions

Based on the above discussion, the following can be extracted:

1) Tanzil in traditions is used as the opposite of ta'wil. It is applied to: (i) the Quran as a whole; (ii) the words of the Quran; (iii) the apparent meaning of the Quran.

2) The term ta'wil is used in traditions with the same meaning as is used in the Quran. When ta'wil is used in connection with the Quran (i.e. ta'wil of the Quran), two meanings might be meant; (i) the intended meaning of the Quran, (ii) fulfilment of Quranic verses. Concerning the first meaning, ta'wil is applied to all levels of meaning, from a simple, literal meaning to the hidden meanings.

3) In the exegetical traditions, ta'wil is mostly applied to the hidden meanings and esoteric exemplars of Quranic words.

4) The idea of “zahir and batin” is related to the Prophet Muhammad through the Shiah and the Sunni schools.

5) Nearly 14000 exegetical traditions are in some interpretive collections of the Shiite such as al-Burhan fi Tafsir al-Quran and Nur al-Thaqalayn. Nearly one-fifth of these traditions are dealing with esoteric interpretations.

6) In the Shiite exegetical traditions, many Quranic words applied to the Prophet and his household or to their opponents. These traditions can be classified as esoteric exemplars of Quranic words. Thus, the humanistic application--applying the verses of the Quran to the Prophet's descendent and their opponents --is a particular characteristic of exegetical traditions of Shiite. This method is called the method of "flow"(jary).

Methodology of Qur'an Interpretation In Exegetical Hadiths of Shi'ah

7) Many of these traditions do not possess an authentic chain of narrators. A survey has showed that nearly half of these traditions are without an authentic chain.

8) Likewise, many of these Hadiths were fabricated and attributed to Shiah Imams.

References

- [1] The Holy Quran, translated by Yusuf Ali
- [2] Alusi, Sayyid Mahmud: Ruh al-Ma'ani fi Tafsir al-Quran, Beirut, Dar 'ihya al-turath al-'arabi, 1980.
- [3] Ayyashi, Muhammad ibn Masoud: Kitab al-tafsir, Tehran, Tntesharat 'Ilmiya Islamiya, 1380 A.H.
- [4] Bahrani, Sayyid Hashim: Al-Burhan fi Tafsir al-Quran, Qom, Ismaeiliyan, 1990
- [5] Bukhari, Muhammad Ibn Isma'il: Sahih- e Bukhari, Beirut, 1401 A.H.
- [6] Ibn Hanbal, Ahmad: Musnad- e Ahmad, Beirut.
- [7] Fayz Kashani, Mawla Muhsin, al-Mahajjat al-Bayza' ; Qom, Intisharat -e-Islami
- [8] Fayz Kashani, Tafsir al-Safi, Dar al-Mortiza, Mashhad
- [9] Hurr al-'Amili, Muhamma Ibn Hasan: Wasa'il al-Shi'a, Beirut, Dar al-Fikr, 2000
- [10] Huwayzi, Ibn Jum'a: Nur al-thaqalayn. Qom, Ismaeiliyan, 1986
- [11] Ibn Hayyan, Muhammad, al-Bahr al-muhit, Beirut, Dar Ihya al-turath al-Islami, 2001
- [12] Ibn Kathir, Ismaeil, Tafsir al-Quran al-'Azim, al-Madinah al-munawwarah, Maktaba al-Dar bi al-Madinah, 1408 A.D.
- [13] Qurtubi, Muhammad, al-Jami' li ahkam al-Quran, Beirut, Dar al-kutub al-'Ilmiyyah, 1408 A.H.
- [14] Khumayni, Ruhullah: Tahrir al-Wasilah, Qom, Dar al-Fikr, 1997
- [15] Kulayni, Muhammab Ibn Ya'qub: Al-Kafi, Tehran, 1365 A.H.
- [16] Majlisi, Muhammad Baqir: Bihar al-anwar, al-Wafaa, Beirut, 1983
- [17] Nayshaburi, Muslim ibn Hajjaj: Sahih e-Muslim; Beirut, Dar Ihya' al-turath al-'arabi
- [18] Nuri, Mirza Husayn: Mustadrak al-Wasa'il, Qom, Mu'ssisat -u- Alil Bayt, 1407
- [19] Qazwini, Muhammad Ibn Yazid: Sunan- e Ibn Majah, Dar Sadir, Beirut.

- [20] Qomi, Ali Ibn Ibrahim: Tafsir al-Qomi, Tehran, Dar al-Kitad al-Islamiyyah, 1983
- [21] Sharif Radi, Nahj al-blagha, Beirut, 1997.
- [22] Suyuti, Jalal al-din: Al-Durr Al-Mansur Fi al-Tafsir Al-Ma'sur, Beirut, Dar al-fikr, 1993. Vol.
- [23] Suyuti, Jalal al-din: al-Itqan, Beirut, Dar Ihya al-turath al-Islami, 1987
- [24] Tabatabai, Muhammad Hosayn: Al-Mizan fi tafsir al-Quran; al-a'lami, Beirut, 1973
- [25] Tabatabai, Quran in Islam; Dar al-kutub al-Islamiyya, Tehran, 1971
- [26] Tirmidhi, Muhammad ibn 'Isa: al-Jami' al-Sahih; Sunan e-Tirmidhi; Beirut, Dar al-kutub al-'ilmiyyah, 1407 A.H.
- [27] Usmani, Shabbir Ahmad: Tafseer –E-Usmani, English translated by Mohammad Ashfaq Ahmad (New Delhi, A Center of Islamic Books, 1992)

روش‌شناسی تفسیر قرآن در روایات تفسیری شیعه

محمد کاظم شاکر^۱

تاریخ دریافت: ۱۳۸۷/۲/۷

تاریخ پذیرش: ۱۳۸۷/۷/۱۴

در کتب تفسیر اثری شیعه، حدود ۱۴۰۰۰ روایت تفسیری نقل شده است. در سده دوازدهم هجری بیشتر این احادیث در دو مجموعه بزرگ تفسیری به نامهای نور الثقلین تألیف ابن جمعه حویزی (۱۱۱۲م) و البرهان فی تفسیر القرآن نوشته سید هاشم بحرانی (۱۱۰۷م) گردآوری شد. این احادیث را می‌توان به طور کلی به سه دسته تقسیم کرد: دسته اول، احادیثی هستند که به تبیین معانی ظاهری آیات قرآن می‌پردازند؛ دسته دوم، از این احادیث به تشریح معانی باطنی قرآن می‌پردازند؛ دسته سوم، روایاتی است که به تطبیق مفاهیم قرآنی بر اشخاص و گروه‌های خاص پرداخته است، این دسته در حوزه تفسیر شیعی به «روایات جری و تطبیق» نام برده شده است و این نام از روایاتی اقتباس شده می‌گردد، «تأویل قرآن به سان مه و مهر به طور دائم بر مدار گیتی در جریان است». بنابر تحقیق انجام شده، شمار ۲۱۳۰ روایت از روایات تفسیری موجود به این نوع تطبیقات اختصاص دارد. به طور مثال، در بسیاری از این روایات، آیات قرآن بر پیامبر اکرم (ص) و اهل بیت (ع) منطبق شده است. برخی از مفسران شیعه مانند علامه طباطبایی، جری و تطبیق را شیوه درستی دانسته‌اند مه اهل بیت در تفسیر قرآن به کار برده‌اند. از طرف دیگر، برخی منتقدان شیعه مانند دکتر محمد حسین ذهبی در کتاب «الیفسیر و المفسرون»، این شیوه تفسیری را به شدت مورد تخطئه قرار داده و آن را تفسیر به رأی دانسته‌اند. واقعیت آن است که اگر چه اصل جری و تطبیق می‌تواند مورد قبول باشد، اما نمی‌توان گفت که همه روایات موسوم به روایات جری و تطبیق از طریق اهل بیت به دست ما رسیده است. شمار زیادی از این روایات نه از نظر متن و نه از نظر سند، قابل دفاع نیست. تحقیق نشان داده که حدود نیمی از این احادیث مُسند نیست. همچنین افرادی مه در کتب رجال به عنوان غالی یا فاسد العقیده معرفی شده‌اند، در اسناد بسیاری از این روایات وجود دارند. برخی از این روایات به عبارات مبتذل و مضحک بیشتر شباهت دارند تا به تفسیر قرآن کریم، مانند روایاتی که «بعوضه» در سوره بقره را بر امام علی (ع) تطبیق کرده است! گفتنی است که مطابق برخی از روایات معتبر، امامان اهل بیت علیهم السلام به شدت با اینگونه تطبیقات مخالفت ورزیده‌اند. این مقاله پس از تبیین مفاهیم کلیدی در حوزه تفسیر روایی و عرضه تقسیم‌بندی جامع نسبت به انواع روایات تفسیری اهل بیت، این دسته از روایات تفسیری را که به «روایات جری و تطبیق» موسومند را مورد بررسی قرار داده و به نقد آنها از نظر متن و سند پرداخته است.

واژگان کلیدی: روشهای تفسیری، تفسیر روایی (اثری)، جری و انطباق، تفسیر باطنی، نقد مکاتب تفسیری

۱. دانشیار، گروه علوم قرآن و حدیث، دانشگاه قم